5. Read the following passage and answer the questions based on this passage:

The pandemic had turned the world on its head. No aspect of life has escaped unscathed. This includes the functioning of courts and tribunals. The judiciary has limited its work to hearing urgent matters via video conferencing. A lot has been written about how this is an opportunity to improve IT infrastructure of courts so that they can move to video- conference hearings as the norm. However, any such move without first revamping procedural law would be futile.

- (i) Which problem, the author is indicating to?
- (ii) How judiciary is affected by this problem?
- (iii) What is the opportunity the author is indicating to?
- (iv) Why the improvement in IT infrastructure would be futile?

OR

(b) Write an informal letter to your friend congratulating him for his success or achievement.

Unit-V

5. (a) The past month has witnessed several protests across the nation against the Central Govt.'s Controversial Citizenship Amendment Act. While the protests are a positive sign-indicative of the nation's united resistance against any attempt which threatens to destroy our secular fabric—the response of the government to quell the protests in any manner whatsoever is deeply worrisome. We have witnessed police brutality against students, labelling of protesters as 'anti-nationals' and excessive surveillance over areas of protest.

In what appears to be another attempt towards creating an 'Orwellian state', the police forces have started using drones to monitor the areas of protest, with the U.P. police going a step further by conducting an aerial survey of houses in several areas of protest in the state. The UP police's justification for the survey is that drones help them 'track and record' movements of alleged 'anti-social' elements, and capture images of houses where bricks and stones are kept on the terraces.

The government can only monitor individuals against whom reasonable grounds of suspicion exist, that is, people with criminal antecedent. Sadly, the govt. is monitoring the movements of protesters who have committed no crime but have only exercised their fundamental right to free speech.

- (i) What the phrase "quell the protests in any manner whatsoever " indicates?
- (ii) Explain the right to free speech in reference to this passage. <https://www.jnvuonline.com>
- (iii) Is the govt. right in his actions? If no, why?

OR

- (b) Khunti sedition cases go back to 2017, and the start of the 'Pathalgadi movement'. Adivasi who were faced with corporate takeover of their land resorted to an innovative form of protest : they began to carve provisions of the Indian Constitution's fifth schedule - that guarantees tribal autonomy-upon stone slabs placed upon the boundaries of the village. The first information reports (FIRs) that follow allege that police were attacked with 'sticks and traditional weapons' (an allegation that Adivasi dispute); but additionally, the FIRs also state that the leaders of the movement have been 'misleading the innocent people in the name of scheduled areas' and 'erecting stone slabs presenting wrong interpretation of the constitution'. As a result of these FIRs, individuals spent many months in jail.

The ongoing events in Khunti reveal multiple faultlines in the legal system, and multiple faults in those who implement it. A century-and-a-half after it was first enacted into Indian Penal Code by the colonial govt., the vague, ambiguous, and unclear wording of the sedition provision continues to make it ripe for abuse. Sedition is defined as 'disaffection' against the govt. or bringing it into 'hatred or contempt'.

1. In the above passage, which issue has been discussed?
2. According to author, what does the FIRs lodged by police against tribal people indicates?
3. Who is responsible for misuse of Indian laws?
